

Week 9: storyboard:

Step 1: Problem

We need to find out the importance of migrant workers to Singapore's economy, in order to address the discrimination they face in Singapore, and thus implement social structures that would provide them with the support they need.

Step 2: Statement → Question

How much discrimination do migrant workers face in Singapore, and are there any social structures in place to support migrant workers?

Step 3: Find data

1. Data on the significance of migrant workers in Singapore:
  - a. Quantitative data to highlight how dependent Singapore is on migrant labour:
MOM's data on foreign workforce numbers
(<https://www.mom.gov.sg/documents-and-publications/foreign-workforce-numbers>)
  - b. Population of Singapore in terms of the non-resident population, PR's and citizens (Statistic Singapore)
  - c. The dependence on migrant workers to maintain competition, expressed by the rise in PMET jobs over the years
(Labour force data 2022 -
<https://stats.mom.gov.sg/Pages/mrds-labour-force-in-singapore-advance-release-2022.aspx>)
2. Data on mistreatment/ discrimination towards migrant workers:
  - a. Figure 3: Attitudes on equal treatment of migrant workers (wcms)
  - b. Figure 6: Work entitlements provided to MDW's by surveyed employers (wcms)
  - c. Figure 11: KAP index by frequency of interaction with migrant workers (wcms)
  - d. HOME and TWC2's annual reports of reported cases over the year
(<https://www.home.org.sg/about-us>)
(<https://twc2.org.sg/who-we-are/annual-reports/>)
  - e. Table 3: Barriers to healthcare and self-reported perception of payment of inpatient expenses among non-domestic migrant workers, HealthServe clinics and foreign worker dormitory
  - f. Table 4: Characteristics of non-domestic migrant workers with psychological distress assessed by Kessler-6 score of 13 or higher, HealthServe clinics and foreign worker dormitory
(<https://www.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/pmc/articles/PMC5435267/>)
3. Social structures in place to support migrant workers:
  - a. Map chart of the NGO's that help migrant workers

Step 4: Visualize (in the process of finding a CSS template)
